Graduate Nursing and Midwifery Programs

One place, a world of healthcare
Exceptional care, outstanding outcomes
ABOUT US

Monash Health is Victoria’s most integrated public health service

As one of Victoria’s leading teaching and referral health care providers, we provide primary, secondary, and tertiary health services, as well as university affiliated international research and teaching facilities, in one organization.

Monash Health is the only public health service that can provide nurses and midwives with the clinical opportunity to care for patients across the entire lifespan - from antenatal care to aged care services.

Monash Health’s core community of over 931,500 people, or 23% of Melbourne, depends on Monash Health for all aspects of their public health care. Monash Health’s services are available to a greater population of 1.317 million people, or 32% of Melbourne, and Monash Health performs a wider referral role in many specialist services for greater Melbourne, regional Victoria and interstate.

One health service, seven major facilities across Melbourne’s South East

Over 13,000 staff work at over 40 Monash Health sites, including the major hospital facilities of Monash Medical Centre, Moorabbin Hospital, Dandenong Hospital, Casey Hospital, the Kingston Centre and Cranbourne Integrated Community Care Centre as well as other community health facilities throughout the region.

Our core values underpin the way we provide care to our patients, residents and clients. Our values are integrity, compassion, accountability, respect and excellence – which spell iCARE.

Whether you are looking for a nursing, midwifery or mental health graduate program, post graduate opportunities, or even opportunities to work across a variety of clinical specialties, Monash Health offers it all. We take your career seriously and are committed to ensuring that you are supported and developed individually.
Monash Health provides a stimulating and supportive learning environment where graduate nurses and midwives are able to consolidate theoretical and clinical skills as they transition to an independent practitioner.

Monash Health Graduates pride themselves on providing quality person-centered health care and services that meet the needs of our community.

Monash Health is committed to training the next generation of health professionals through encouraging graduates to challenge themselves in search of new knowledge and experiences.

“I moved from Tasmania to Melbourne for the Monash Health Graduate Nurse Program. It has been a brilliant way to start my acute nursing career and I have learned so much. I feel so lucky to have been given the opportunity and no matter where I go in nursing I know that this year of experience will benefit my career in the future.”

– Tess Hatfield, Graduate Nurse 2016
Monash Health provides the most extensive maternity services in Victoria, assisting on average over 9,000 births a year.

We pride ourselves on teamwork and have implemented Team Models of care for all birthing women and their families.

Midwives, Doctors and Allied Health staff all work within these Interprofessional Teams to enhance continuity and Family Centered Care. Women requiring enhanced care can access some of the best Fetal Diagnostic and Maternal Fetal Medicine facilities in the state whilst still having regular contact with midwives.

Our three sites, Monash Medical Centre, Clayton, Dandenong Hospital and Casey Hospital offer a wide range of services, from tertiary high risk care to primary low-risk care, which ensures a diverse and challenging graduate year.

Graduates within our program consolidate Midwifery practice in clinical areas such as:

- Birthing
- Pregnancy assessment
- Postnatal/Antenatal care

For those who wish to incorporate a Nursing rotation, (Double Degree Nursing/Midwifery applicants), a placement consolidating these skills is incorporated within the Combined Midwifery and Nursing Program.

On completion of your graduate year possible opportunities may include:

- Team Care at Monash Health Medical Centre, Clayton to continue enhancing and consolidating your skills in all areas of practice
- Team Care at Dandenong working in all areas of practice in a Unit offering diverse cultural complexity
- Team Care at Casey Hospital working toward gaining the skills to work in our Caseload or Homebirth Models

“2016 was a tremendous journey for me. As a new graduate I entered the workforce full of enthusiasm and excitement. Looking back, I could never have imagined the amount of knowledge and skill I would gain from the hands on experience in this tertiary teaching institute. The support from the education team has been nothing short of superb. I was afforded the opportunity to develop skills and put into practice the knowledge I had acquired at university. Each day provided me with invaluable experience and afforded me a very firm foundation on which to build my career as a midwife. I highly recommend a graduate year at Monash Health for all newly qualified midwives!”

– Jess Sneider, 2016 Graduate
Mental Health Graduate Nurse Program

Mental Health Nursing is an exciting and challenging specialty that provides care, treatment, and support for individuals, their families and carer’s who are experiencing a mental illness or disorder.

An essential part of a mental health nurses’ role is to develop and maintain an effective, therapeutic relationship and to provide comprehensive, holistic care.

There is a strong focus on working collaboratively with the individual experiencing mental health issues, their family and /or carer’s, key workers and the Interdisciplinary team.

This program is designed to assist and support nurses within the program in developing knowledge and skills that will enable them to become confident and clinically sound in the specialty of mental health nursing.

The program offers:
Two six month clinical rotations in the following areas:
- Acute
- Rehabilitation (Inpatient or Community)
- Residential Withdrawal Unit
- Perinatal and Infant Inpatient Unit
- Early in Life Mental Health
- Older persons Mental Health

Placements are over multiple sites: Casey, Clayton, Dandenong and Kingston (Aged).

Our graduates also receive:
- A comprehensive orientation program
- Program exclusive paid education sessions
- Monthly clinical supervision
- Two days of ICARE2 (Integrating Cognitively Articulated Respect with Equanimity Training)
- An allocated preceptor for clinical support and guidance on each clinical rotation
- The support of PRECEPT (Mental Health Practice Development and Training Team)
- Access to the PRECEPT education and training calendar for the duration of the year.

Mental Health Program Intakes
Our main intake occurs in January each year. Other intakes throughout the year vary depending on the Mental Health Program need.

Masters of Nursing
There is an expectation that all graduates will enroll and study Masters of Nursing through university and study concurrently with our Graduate Program.

The Mental Health Program is affiliated with Monash University and significant advanced standing is credited to those who successfully complete our graduate year.

Monash Health
The Monash Health Aboriginal Graduate Nursing and Midwifery Program works in conjunction with the mainstream graduate program and provides additional culturally appropriate support and mentoring to Indigenous nursing and midwifery graduates.

The Aboriginal Graduate Nursing and Midwifery Program offers Monash Health:

- The opportunity to increase the number of Indigenous health professionals
- The opportunity to provide a culturally diverse and responsive workforce
- The ability to contribute to positive health outcomes for our Aboriginal patients by providing culturally responsive and timely care
- Stronger links to the Aboriginal community

We are working towards improving our support systems for Aboriginal staff:

- Aboriginal mentor program in place to offer support and guidance to graduates
- Cultural safety program to educate managers and staff to ensure Monash Health is a culturally safe and responsive organisation
- Dedicated cultural support days for graduates focusing on professional development and cultural identity
- Support and culturally appropriate recruitment and retention options
- Building relationships and working in partnership with the Aboriginal community
- Provision of culturally appropriate health services and improved health outcomes for Aboriginal patients and families
